BREAKFAST FORUM SERIES

Presents:

Where do we grow from here?

Featuring:

Metro President Tom Hughes
Bill Wyatt, Port of Portland
Mayor Jerry Willey, City of Hillsboro
Mayor Tim Knapp, City of Wilsonville
Don Mazziotti, City of Beaverton
Todd Britsch, New Home Trends

In an effort to control urban growth and enable orderly development, regional planners have designated a series of urban and rural reserves around the Portland metropolitan region. Seven areas now being considered for urban expansion are on the westside. Even if all of these areas are approved, this will only be a 1.5 percent expansion of the existing UGB - A place where housing and jobs can locate over the next 20 years. The questions remain, how much of our region's growth can occur inside the UGB, and where should the boundary be expanded to create new neighborhoods and employment centers?

To discuss these timely issues, Westside Economic Alliance and the Clackamas County Business Alliance will host an extended Breakfast Forum, focusing on our region's land use policies. Registered members and guests will join us Thursday, August 25 at the West End Building in Lake Oswego when we welcome our guest speakers Metro President Tom Hughes, Port of Portland executive director Bill Wyatt, Hillsboro Mayor Jerry Willey, Wilsonville Mayor Tim Knapp, Beaverton Community Development director Don Mazziotti, and Todd Britsch, president of New Home Trends, a data and research service for residential real estate markets in the Pacific Northwest.

When: Thursday, August 25, 7:30 to 10:30 a.m.

Where: West End Building
4101 S.W. Kruse Way, Lake Oswego, OR 97035
